MOOD: 😊 happy

MUSIC: KT Tunstall - Silent Sea

overheard at the climbing gym:

"Send me up a tool!"

"A big tool or a little tool?"

"A big tool!"

"Bushy, get me a big tool!"

"Joe, Tasha needs a big tool!"

"Actually, it's for Chaz. I'm just the messenger."

"Well, that was a wrenching experience."

There's a lot of joy in running up a route you know so well you can dance on it. Even if they laugh at you when you get down again.

You know, people who pun should be drawn and quoted.

You know, that wrench wasn't the only mighty big tool in the gym....

Being laughed at, fortunately, is not often a fatal experience.

I love that you can dance on walls.

A musician friend of mine, SJ Tucker of Skinny White Chick and more, just posted a bunch of pictures she took at the Sonora Desert Museum in Tuscon. I thought you might enjoy this one.

That's a lot of weight to assign to somebody.

I suppose it could be, at that. I hadn't thought of it that way, I just thought you might enjoy it. The next shot in the sequence is a statue of a coyote pouncing on a mouse.

Coyote: "You have me confused with Barack Obama."

Coyote would say that. I'd only wish we had a politician I could actually confuse with Coyote. Politics would be so much more interesting.

Coyote: "If you can't run your own life, I'm not going to run it for you! ...oooo! Interns!"

Actually, I think we did, for a while there, come to think of it.
